Louisiana town's tap water is No. 1 and No. 2

WORKER HOOKS SEWER LINE TO CITY WATER SUPPLY!

Read this and PUKE!

by JACK ALEXANDER
Weekly World News

PINEVILLE, La. — Folks in this small southern town were ready to tan somebody's hide when they found out they had been drinking, bathing and washing clothes in filthy, foul-smelling sewer water for more than two months.

Water heaters in some homes filled up with a dirty substance they later discovered was human waste.

The filter on Tammy Campbell's washing machine, dishwasher and refrigerator ice-maker were clogged with a white stringy substance that turned out to be pulverized threads of used toilet paper.

"I get physically ill when I think that I have been bathing, drinking and washing my clothes and dishes in sewer water," she said.

Mayor Clarence Fields admits a city worker made a mistake in late February when he repaired a burst water pipe at a 40-home subdivision and inadvertently hooked it up to the sewer line. The worker has since been reprimanded.

"We will have to look at the way we do business in the public works department," the mayor said. "The health and well-being of our citizens comes first."

People in and near Walden Point subdivision began complaining about their water in early March. But city engineer Thomas David said he wasn't asked to look into the problem until early May.

David took water samples, talked to people and tasted the water. The cold water wasn't bad, but the hot water smelled terrible, he said.

David said the water and sewer lines were mingled in the subdivision 25 years ago, long before the town began video-taping the lines.

Mayor Fields says the problem has been fixed, but that doesn't ease Deena Spier's mind. She's pregnant and worries her unborn baby may have been harmed.

GROSS! Judy Bates, center, and her daughters Bailey, left, and Katie, take turns sniffing water from the tap in their home. Judy notes the water has been "smelling really bad."

AMERICAN DOCTORS STEALING BILLIONS EACH YEAR — BY OPERATING ON DEAD PEOPLE!

CHOP, CHOP! Unscrupulous doctors are making a killing off dead patients, unlike the surgeons pictured here who actually save lives.

By VIC LORETTO / Weekly World News

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Money-grubbing surgeons across America are bilking taxpayers and insurance companies out of billions of dollars a year — by operating on dead patients!

That's the shocking claim of former nurse Dorothy Pelto, head of a medical encounter watchdog group called People Against Dishonest Doctors (PADD).

Mrs. Pelto, 54, recently retired after 30 years in the nursing profession. She quit after witnessing countless phony "operations" on patients who'd died minutes — or even hours — earlier.

They slice up patients who are DOA — then charge insurance companies for 'emergency surgery!'

FORMER NURSE Dorothy Pelto.

"I just couldn't stand by and keep silent any longer," she says.

"The public has to know what's going on. Every day surgeons are doing bogus operations on people who've been fatally injured in auto accidents or who've died of gunshot wounds or heart attacks or any one of numerous other causes.

"It's outrageous, and the families of the victims never suspect for a second that they're being conned.

"They're in such a state of panic when they arrive at the hospital that they're really not thinking straight. Besides, who would ever think a doctor would be kind of a monster?

"Unfortunately, that's the case with many of them. They're nothing but a bunch of butchers who'll do anything to pull off their 'dead man procedure' — or DMP as it is commonly called — by using a well-rehearsed routine.

"One of the young physicians is sent out to the waiting room to tell the tearful family they're doing everything they can to save the patient's life, but it's touch and go," she says.

"Then he heads back to the operating room, knowing full well that the patient has already expired. Meanwhile, the doctors are sticking up the body and making it look like they've tried everything — just so they can bill the families for phony emergency operating room procedures. Mrs. Pelto says, the doctors are basically free to do "whatever they want" — and can "get away with anything."

She says even honest doctors and nurses are extremely reluctant to blow the whistle on the scam because they fear it will bring disrepute on the entire profession.

"These who do this must be stopped," Mrs. Pelto said.

"They are crooks, and crooks of the worst kind, because they take advantage of the hopes and fears of [illegible]

New York's hottest new eatery offers . . . NUDE SUSHI!

By MANNY SILVER / Weekly World News

NEW YORK CITY — Patrons at a swinging New York restaurant get to enjoy fish — and women — in the raw at the world's first nude sushi restaurant!

It's definitely a feast for the eyes — and the belly — at the swank VIP Club.

In addition to standard sushi fare, the elegant four-star eatery offers sexy specials like a "sushi roll" and "dancing shrimp" — a live crustacean that bumps, grinds and gyrates on your plate.

The combination sushi-strip club was born after New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani signed a "no-no" law restricting adult entertainment to less than half a business' public area, in an effort to spruce up the city's XXX-rated nightspots.

Other strip clubs have also cleaned up their act and become fancy restaurants with wine stewards and pastry chefs — just the eateries where everyone keeps their clothes on.

One nude club even has a team of 11 translators on staff — just in case horny United Nations diplomats drop by for dinner and a show.

At the VIP Club, sushi is available throughout the entire premises, but there is an upstairs area designated for dining only.

And just so there are no surprises for unsuspecting customers like Grandma or Grandpa, a big sign proclaims "You Are Now Entering an Adult Area" when they walk into the XXX-rated region.

The VIP Club's management say they maintain their business as a "nice, quiet place to begin or end an evening."

And they're keeping sushi prices way down so patrons will have more money to spend on strippers.

GHOST OF KING ARTHUR ROAMING ENGLAND!

LONDON — The ghost of King Arthur, in full battle armor and crown, has been spotted by more than 2,000 people this year, British newspapers report.

The eerie figure, seen roaming the countryside and moors, identifies himself as "Arthur, King of the Britons" and warns of dire times to come.

This isn't the first wave of Arthur sightings. The ghost of the legendary ruler was seen in 1066 A.D. — right before the Norman

Stroke of genius

MILAN, Italy — Medical experts admit they are puzzled by the case of a 66-year-old man whose I.Q. doubled after a stroke.

The man, identified only as Patient X, had been categorized as "mildly retarded," with an intelligence quotient of just 81 points before his stroke in January.

But after the stroke, doctors say the senior scored 163 on an I.Q. test — well into the genius category.

The patient does have some difficulty walking as a result of the stroke, however, according to the physicians.

New research reveals . . .

7 WAYS TO PUT THE MAGIC BACK IN YOUR LOVE LIFE!

You can put the magic back in a dull, stagnant relationship — and it's easier than you think, according to psychiatrist Dr. Anthony Pietropinto. All you have to do is follow his simple seven-point plan based on the latest research:

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

1. Don't deny there's a problem — devise a solution! If your loved one is unhappy or bored with the relationship, don't get defensive or ignore his or her complaints — listen.

If one person has a problem, then the relationship needs to be fixed. And once you acknowledge the problem, plan deliberate steps to put the magic back.

2. Diversify your dull routine. When two partners fall into a rut, a love affair can lose its sparkle faster than a bike skidding — but you can help to get the latter back by shaking up your schedule.

If you always take a Sunday afternoon drive and dinner, go out on a Sunday morning instead and discover a new restaurant.

3. Date your partner. Try pretending he or she is a stranger and go out together. You might, for example, pick up your partner at work in a limousine. The possibilities are limited only by your imagination.

4. Do something different. You can create a sense of adventure by trying new things together. It can be as simple as exploring a new place or going on a moonlight cruise.

Even joint volunteer work can give a new perspective — with the added benefit of helping others.

5. Trade all household chores. For example, the man could cook the meals and the woman can try her hand at small repairs.

This will give you a new appreciation for each other's roles.

6. Surprise your lover. Send a funny greeting card for no reason or leave small gifts where they can be discovered. These tell your sweetheart that you are thinking of him or her frequently and that you really do care.

7. Do a good deed for your partner — every day. This can be as simple as pouring a glass of orange juice or bringing home a small gift.

You can give your partner a back rub or serve your mate breakfast in bed. The results just might be magical.

BURGLAR BUSTED BY TOMATO!

CHELTENHAM, England — Police arrested a man for burglary after finding his DNA at the crime scene — on a half-eaten tomato!

Shaun Tethington, 31, denied taking cash and jewelry until police confronted him with the partially consumed tomato.

The victims told police that they had cleaned up before going out and found the leftover snack in the sink when they returned.

Cops recovered DNA from traces of saliva on the tomato.

Tethington will be arraigned at Gloucester Crown Court for the robbery.

Mighty Marisa Sandlin doesn't know how she got her super strength — but is glad she did.

PINT-SIZE KID SAVES DAD'S LIFE — BY LIFTING A 2-TON TRACTOR OFF HIM!

JUST CALL ME 'SUPERGIRL!'

HERO Marisa Sandlin has tried to lift the tractor again — but couldn't budge it.

KELLOGG, Idaho — An injured farmer would have died in agony under his own tractor if not for his 12-year-old daughter — who tapped a hidden reserve of strength and lifted the two-ton machine off her helpless daddy!

Mighty miss Marisa Sandlin, who weighs just 91 pounds soaking wet, says she doesn't know how she was able to pick up the tractor, since she's not even the strongest girl in her fifth-grade class.

'And I'm not even the strongest girl in the fifth grade'

"If I had stopped to think about it, I never would have done it," she says. "But I just saw Daddy lying there with that tractor on him, and I had to get it off him.

"So I grabbed the side of the tractor and pulled up until it wasn't on top of him any more."

Robert Sandlin, 32, was plowing the family farm with his daughter beside him when their tractor hit a large rock and pitched over into a ditch. Marisa was able to jump free as it rolled, but her father was pinned underneath, unable to move or breathe.

"I was sure that the last sight I was ever going to see was my little girl over me, crying for me to get up," he recalls. "I could tell I'd broken a leg and cracked a couple ribs.

"Then all of a sudden, everything felt lighter and I could breathe again.

SAVED by a miracle, Robert Sandlin.

"I opened my eyes and there was Marisa holding that tractor up and screaming for me to roll out from under it.

"I could not really believe it, but boy, I scooted out from under there as fast as I could."

The plucky kid then grabbed her father's cell phone and dialed for help. Emergency workers arriving on the scene were amazed that Sandlin was still alive. He was rushed to intensive care with broken bones and internal injuries, but was released three weeks later.

"The doctor said it wasn't unheard of for adrenaline to really kick in during a crisis," Sandlin says.

"It's just incredible that it happened when it did with my little girl. My wife and I, we've always thought Marisa was a super kid — and now we've got proof.

"I couldn't be any more proud of her."

How to Collect from Social Security & Other Gov't Programs

A new book written by a former federal investigator tells how Americans can collect their share of the over $351 billion that will be handed out this year by Uncle Sam. The book reveals how to collect Social Security before retirement, small business loans, income supplements, education benefits, low interest home loans, rent subsidies, job training, veterans benefits, medical assistance, unemployment, even welfare and food stamps and much more. The book covers all of the new Social Security and other federal benefits passed by the United States Congress.

Here are a few facts covered in this revealing new book:

- How over 55 million Americans collect from Social Security and other federal programs (average age about 32)
- How to make the entire family eligible for benefits, even your youngest child.
- How to qualify for benefits even if you've never paid in a penny to Social Security.
- How to qualify for disability pensions (over 4.2 million are collecting, but thousands more are eligible).
- How to find out how much you have paid into Social Security and the amount of monthly benefits you're entitled to.
- How to collect a refund if recent [illegible] contributions.
- How to get up to a $750,000 loan to start your own business.
- How to collect a $40,000 mobile home loan.
- How to collect a $15,000 home improvement loan.
- How to collect over $400 a month to attend college, trade school or get on-the-job training.
- How to qualify for free medical care, including eye glasses and dental care.
- How to collect hundreds of dollars a month to help pay your rent, including utilities.
- How 1 in 10 Americans collects food stamps.
- How to buy your own home and have Uncle Sam make part of your house payment.
- How to repair your credit with free information from Uncle Sam.
- How Uncle Sam will help pay part of your utility bills.
- How to obtain thousands of dollars in free federal services.

While the Complete Handbook of U.S. Government Benefits could mean thousands of dollars to you, it's being offered at only $12.95 (plus $3 P&H). Order from: R. Emil Neuman, Dept. WC-52; PMB 5; 103 North Coast Highway 101; Encinitas CA 92075. You may return the book within 90

WORLD'S SEXY

TRUE LOVE? Newlyweds Jeannette Sanborn and Buster Simcox tied the knot on June 3. The happy couple has even been talking about starting a family.

— and she's got a heart to match!

FATTEST MAN WEDS BLONDE ACCOUNTANT!

DALLAS, Texas — The fattest man in the world, 3,996-pound Buster Simeus, has tied the knot — with a stunning, intelligent woman who's convinced he's the most wonderful guy on the face of the Earth!

On June 3, the human mountain said "I do" to gorgeous Jeanette Sunberg, a soft-spoken accountant he met in January when she came to his home to do his taxes.

"I never dreamed I'd find someone as wonderful as Jeanette who would look past my physical appearance and love me as I am," says beefy Buster, 42, who once lost more than 2,500 pounds on a crash diet — only to gain it all back.

"The strange thing is that I lost all that weight hoping to attract a woman, and it didn't work.

"Now, after I gain the weight back again and give up all hope of ever finding romance, it walks into the love of my life."

It will be the first marriage for Jeanette, who says Buster bowled her over the moment she laid eyes on him.

The shapely blonde says that far from being a turn-off, Buster's robust physique strikes her as "kind of cute."

"I love everything about him," she says. "Everything Buster's weight is part of what makes him unique. When you love someone, you take them as they are.

"I'll admit he can have creole certain problems — especially when it comes people become even with the extra slide doors he's had built into his house. Buster has trouble getting out and about.

"So we spend our time watching TV, talking, playing cards, holding hands and cuddling — and eating, of course."

And it's the eating man Buster does best, the lolling and-moaning monsters admit. On an average day the two-ton dream goddess downs 20 to 30 steaks, five pounds of chicken, a huge pot of potatoes and beans, 40 pancakes with pints of butter and syrup, 12 to 24 pies, 20 or 30 milkshakes and six pounds of fudge.

"Food is a very strong bond between us," says lovestruck Jeanette, who weighs in at a slightly less 300 pounds herself. "I love to cook and try out new recipes — and Buster is an appreciative of what I do."

Buster, who lives on a healthy inheritance left to him by his late father, says he hopes he and Jeanette will soon have kids and that she will give up her job to stay home with them.

"When we have little ones," he says, "our love will truly be complete."

Wide-bodied Buster first made headlines when Weekly World News reported on his overwhelming lust for T-bones and apple pies four years ago.

At that time, he told the NEWS: "I'd love to have me a classy lady, but I've never been too swift on the singles bars."

Today he smiles at that.

"It goes to show you never can tell what the future holds," he says.

"I had given up on love. Then Jeanette walked into my life — and suddenly all my dreams came true."

Now, 3,996-pound chowhound wants to have a house full of 'little ones!'

6-year spending spree comes to an end!

THEN: Cesar Bastos stands in front of his new mansion with his wife, Maria, left, and sister-in-law, Cornelita Hernandez, right

'I BLEW $27 MILLION,' SAYS BROKE LOTTERY WINNER!

By RICK TRACY

BOISE, Idaho — Happy-go-lucky Cesar Bastos was sitting on top of the world after winning a $27 million lottery — but he lost it all by living too high on the hog.

"The name of this story is rags to riches and back to rags," said fun-loving Cesar, 37, who now survives on a $290-a-week shipping clerk's salary and is in debt up to his eyeballs.

"I've been poor most of my life, but I've also lived like a king. That's more than most people can say. Easy come, easy go."

Outgoing Cesar was working on an Idaho potato farm in 1983 when his brother died in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. He and his wife, Maria, spent their entire savings so that he could return to Brazil for the funeral.

"I bought two tickets for Brazil's national lottery and one of them was my ticket out of the wrong side of the tracks — a lump-sum $27 million trip to Heaven on Earth," he said.

"When I got back to Boise I threw the biggest bash the town had ever seen. It cost $15,000 and lasted four days."

Cesar, his wife and her younger sister Cornelita Hernandez, 27, invited only a few of Boise's elite to their stately mansion complete with imported Italian marble pillars and lavish furnishings that cost another $2 million.

They also purchased "his" and "hers" Mercedes, a Cadillac for Cornelita and a 200-acre horse farm complete with a dozen thoroughbreds.

Flamboyant Cesar handed out crisp $100 bills to his pals in the posh Rich Bastard Club, chartered a Brazilian jumbo, spent another cool $50,000 on clothes and gambled away a small fortune in Las Vegas.

But high living Cesar's bubble burst in 1988 when his wife finally got fed up with seeing Cesar making love to her sister Cornelita.

She sued for divorce and got a $5 million settlement, the mansion and half the horse farm.

From there, Cesar's life went downhill. Bad investments in the stock market ate away at what was left of his fortune and he lost his share of the farm.

Cesar is now living in a small apartment in Boise and is trying to get back on his feet.

"I'm not bitter about losing my money," he said. "I'm just glad I had the chance to live like a king for a while."

Q Angelina Jolie is not only stunningly beautiful she's also a great actress who has played a wide range of interesting characters, such as the mental-hospital psychopath in Girl Interrupted. How does she always manage to find such intriguing roles?

— Vera P., Green Bay, Wis.

A Angelina, the troubled daughter of actor Jon Voight, has an unusual method for choosing films she feels the script includes the qualities and depths of a character she would find fascinating and compelling. "I always play women I would like my friends (and friends with benefits) to be," she explained.

I WOULD DATE Angelina Jolie.

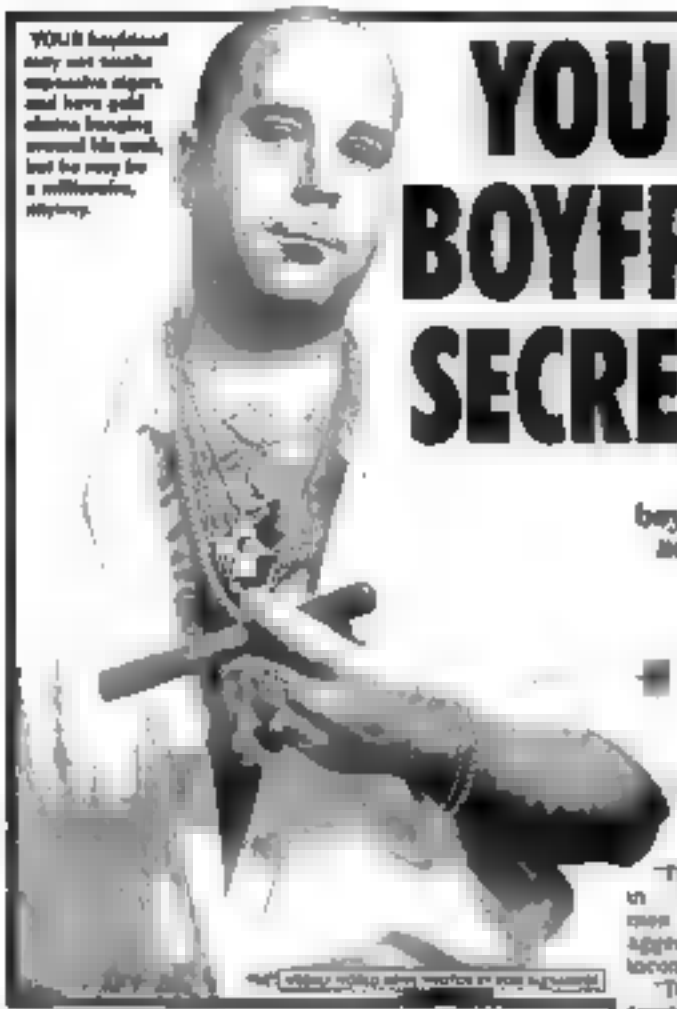
YOUR CHEAPSKATE BOYFRIEND MAY BE A SECRET MILLIONAIRE!



YOUR boyfriend may not wear expensive cigars and have gold chains hanging around his neck, but he may be a millionaire, anyway.

SAN FRANCISCO — Listen up, single gals: Your boyfriend may be a [redacted] millionaire — [redacted] if he always acts like he's [redacted] broke!

In a strange new [redacted], young men [redacted] through the [redacted] market and upstart Internet companies are hiding their wealth to ward [redacted] gold [redacted], [redacted] say.

"Men have always been willing to lie about how much money they have to improve their chances of landing the right lady," says Dr Natalie Sotelli, who teaches a course on modern mating rituals.

By GEORGE SAMFORD
[redacted] World Desk Bureau

"The difference is that [redacted] in the past, men usually exaggerated their income.

"Today, we are seeing more and more men play down the amount of money they make and have in the bank."

M&M boys Mars's best selling as he about their income, says Dr Natalie Sotelli.

Here are 6 tip-offs that your beau is [redacted]gh!

Social researchers say [redacted] are a lot more [redacted] underwater than [redacted] wealth while courting their sweethearts.

Some men are worth as much as 1,000 times more than they pretend, experts say.

"In the last couple of years, the stock market has been so overdrive, that men [redacted] have been [redacted] and men as their 30s are finding themselves millionaires overnight," said Dr Sotelli.

Sadly, many of these young men have been [redacted] taken advantage of by unscrupulous women.

"As a result, many men today [redacted] their wealth until they are sure that the women they are dating love them for what's in their hearts – not what's in their wallets," said the sociologist.

Here from the San Francisco based expert, are six signs that your man is secretly rich, rich rich:

$ HE'S VAGUE ABOUT HIS JOB. If after several months of dating, you're not sure exactly what your boyfriend does for a living, he's probably being deliberately evasive.

$ HE ALWAYS INSISTS ON "GOING DUTCH." [redacted] the scent of money.

$ HE'S UNABLE TO DO BASIC CHORES. A client [redacted] may not know how to change a tire, operate a dishwasher or cook a meal, because he is used to such tasks being done by flunkies.

$ HIS "HOME" IS SMALL AND SHABBY. A rich guy may take you to a dingy bike [redacted] instead of his mansion. "Suspiciously out-of-date furniture is a dead giveaway," says Dr Sotelli.

$ HE CLAIMS NOT TO OWN A CAR. If he always gets to your door by public transportation, there could be a flashy Jaguar or Mercedes in his garage that he doesn't want you to see.

$ HE TAKES YOU SAILING ON "A FRIEND'S" BOAT. If he's always borrowing the use of a "friend's" boat, cabin in the woods or other luxury items, yet you never see this generous crony, odds are the friend [redacted]

MY AMERICA By ED ANGER

Movie theaters have some nerve! They want us to PAY to watch stupid commericals!

I'm madder than a John Wayne in a pink tutu over what those money-grubbing Hollywood honchos are doing on the big screens these days.

I almost swallowed a whole box of Milk Duds in one gulp at our local theater the other day when a damned car commercial popped up on the screen.

Now, I haven't been to the moving pictures in years.

But as I remember it, they used to show you a cartoon, a black and white newsreel and those ordeal packed Coming Attractions before the feature film.

Let's face it. If I wanted to see any stupid commercials I [illegible] have paid good money for a ticket to the movies for Pete's sake!

All I have to do is turn on the tube in my living room any time of the day or night and get one nerve jangling sales pitch after another from some shyster trying to sell me something I don't need.

That's the reason I ditched a good, old fashioned, God stomping fit until I got my eighteen bucks back from the Double Cinema and dragged Thelma Jean out of there.

And I really wanted to see that new movie Gladiator, too ... but now I'll just wait until it shows up on the TV by God.

Do those Hollywood fat cats really think I'm dumb enough to PAY to watch commercials?

That's why I've got a snappy Ed Anger Salute for Walt Disney Studios. They have banned commercials in any theaters showing one of their movies.

"Our patrons don't dislike screen advertising — they hate it," said a Disney spokesman.

"We have been told repeatedly by moviegoers that they don't want and will not tolerate commercials [illegible] in theaters ... or else!"

And rightfully so, I might add.

Whatever happened to the good old days when the only commercials you saw at the movies were those magic, wonderful pictures of Milk Duds and buttered popcorn at intermission?

Now they try to peddle vacations and car dealers instead.

What's next, some pitch man hawking a laxative ... the ultimate in need.

The next time I put my hard earned dollars in the movie window for a commercial I'll put the screen with so much melted candy and buttery grease that it'll take you a week to clean up.

SECRET CODE TELLS THE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A stunning new book by a noted Bible scholar reveals that Jesus' words, recorded in the New Testament, are not only wise and meaningful exactly as they were spoken — they are also coded messages that provide amazing prophecies regarding the future of mankind!

Dr. Wayne Scoville is a mathematician and Bible expert on the four gospels — Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Using a complex system based on numbers that exist in the Bible and Aramaic, which is what Jesus spoke in, Dr. Scoville has arrived at a formula he says shows that Jesus' words carry a deeper meaning than anyone ever dreamed.

In the book, The Secret Code of Christ, Dr. Scoville writes: Jesus was talking to two people in the first century. He was preaching about the Kingdom of Heaven and how to achieve it.

But because the subject was His words, He knew He would be constantly quoted. He was the only person who knew the true details of His words.

Some of these words are startling and controversial — such as a prediction that will [illegible] in the western part of the world a [illegible] and [illegible] of sick and handicapped people.

But He doesn't speak to the bad news, telling us exactly how and when the world will end — a great nuclear fire in 2012.

Dr. Scoville devotes a whole chapter of the book to explain the complex code and how he applies it.

Basically it involves taking the Aramaic version and then letters of Jesus' words and using them to form new words. The numbers 12 and 144 are believed to be special numbers because they recur over and over again throughout the Bible.

Dr. Scoville says Christ's coded messages correctly revealed 20 things that have already taken place including:

- The stock market crash of 1929
- The Gulf War
- The AIDS epidemic
- The first moon landing, in 1969

Here are some of the startling prophecies — and the years when they will come to pass — as discovered by the code:

✝ Late 2000s — A world leader will go insane and release a deadly nerve gas on his own people — killing more than [illegible] people and

IN HOLY BIBLE FUTURE!

2001: The ozone layer vanishes overnight, blinding millions!

2006: The world will unify under one government!

2012: An angel will visit Earth to warn of the End Times!

Early 2001 — A sudden and complete breakdown of the ozone layer will allow too much sunlight to pass through our atmosphere and cause millions worldwide to go blind.

Late 2001 — A meteor will pass so close to Earth that temperatures will rise 100 degrees in some countries. The lights will go. The event will cause panic, killing millions people who will think the world is about to end.

2003 — Supermarkets in America or Europe, a strange virus will bring a terrible wasting disease to all of the infected people who is touched by the drugs will be cured. Even cancer patients will get well. After three days and nights, the pain will stop as suddenly as it started.

2007 — All the countries of the world will come together in peace and form a single government.

2010 — Unrest will begin to undermine the government and the friction will worsen over the next four years.

2012 — An angel will come to Earth and warn mankind to prepare for the End Times. But few will listen.

Most people will become evil at heart.

2014 — Finally, an evil leader will emerge and lead a band of rebels in an attempt to overthrow the government. The resulting civil war will be fought with nuclear weapons. The war will escalate until most of earth's life is destroyed.

Dr. Scavelar said he spent many years working out the code and then years trying to tell us these things. He'd have put some right on and on.

He explains it this way: "I'm not a prophet. I'm not trying to scare people. I'm saying these things are going to happen. It's up to them whether or not they want to change."

He says he hopes to effect change more than to appear right here. And it's not too late for everyone — even for those who have made the ruin.

"But I believe the one way to make people change their ways is to show them the consequences of their actions. Only then can people begin to prepare for them."

NOTED Bible scholar Dr. Wayne Scavelar

Expert used Bible code to predict the assassination of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin

AUTHOR Michael Drosnin

Amazingly, Dr. Wayne Scavelar isn't the only expert alleging that there are hidden messages in the Bible. In a blockbuster book called The Bible Code, author Michael Drosnin says there are coded prophecies throughout the Old Testament.

Drosnin uses a computerized decoding system to decipher predictions about the future of mankind.

The mathematician-computer expert astounded the world when he used the code to accurately predict the assassination of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin — a full year before it happened!

Like Dr. Scavelar's code, Drosnin's code involves a complex system of numbers and letters. Drosnin says the Bible code predicted, among other things, the Watergate scandal and Richard Nixon's subsequent resignation as President.

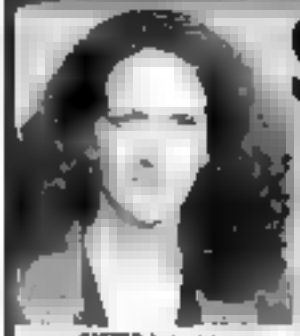
SCIENTIST MAKES MILLIONS — BY GROWING THE WORLD'S FIRST SILVER ORCHID!



GIFTED botanist Dr. Linda Tavendar.

By ANN VICTORIA
World News

TAMPA, Fla. — Botanist Linda Tavendar has set the horticultural industry on its ear by creating the most expensive flower ever developed: The world's first silver orchid!

Dr Tavendar is asking a staggering $2 million for the extraordinary hybrid.

The gifted, 32-year-old researcher has been working on the groundbreaking creation for 12 years, ever since she was a brilliant 20 year old botany student in college.

Its color is a very pale silver with a snow white diamond dust effect on the petals.

Experts say the bloom, which goes by the name of Dalenlaghorn Undistinctive Tavendarii, will be hotly sought after by growers from all over the world who will want to clone it for their private collections.

Although Dr Tavendar is tight-lipped about exactly how she developed the flower, she does say she started with a purchased orchid and crossed it with a number of other varieties.

"There are more than 35,000 kinds of orchids in the world," Dr Tavendar says.

"There exists in almost every color imaginable. White and yellow ... even black. But no one ever saw a silver one, until now."

Dr Tavendar says she's dreamed her way real life as perfume since beginning the painstaking work on the silver orchid back in 1982.

"Love, family — even friendship — have been hard. I couldn't afford," she says.

"I knew there were at least four other scientists working on this project ... two in Sweden, one in Brazil and another colleague at California. We were in an all-out race to be the first to grow the silver specimen.

"That spirit of competition drove me and kept me totally focused on my work, to the exclusion of anything else."

But now that the project has been completed and it looks as though she'll be handsomely rewarded for her sacrifices, she says she plans to make up for lost time.

"I'm not going to retire from the world of orchid research," she says.

"But I'm ready to begin to get more active socially, to travel, to get some balance into my life."

Experts predict that the silver orchid will be sold sometime within the next few months.

ONE of Dr. Tavendar's nursery workers admires the silver beauty.

ANGRY WIFE Della Drimland

DECEITFUL HUSBAND Bill Drimland

HUBBY PLAYS DEAF & DUMB FOR SEVEN YEARS — TO ESCAPE HIS WIFE'S NAGGING!

PHOTOS COURTESY OF DELLA DRIMLAND

By KEVIN CREID / Weekly World News

DENVER — For seven years, Della Drimland thought her husband Bill was deaf and dumb. Then she learned he was faking his disability — to escape her nagging!

Now, furious Della, 34, is divorcing her deceitful hubby, who says he began his charade just a year after they were married so he could "get some peace and quiet."

"Della's the sweetest gal in the world at times," Bill says. "But she has a very shrill voice and when she'd start to get me with her 'Take out the trash' 'Mow the lawn' 'Watch your driving' — well, she just drove me nuts.

"Then one day, there was an explosion at the plant where I worked as a line foreman, and several of my coworkers were injured. All at once, I saw an opportunity to get some relief. I pretended I'd lost my hearing, and that my vocal chords had been damaged beyond repair — and I even got a phony letter from a doctor to back me up.

"I needed some peace and quiet — and it worked like a dream"

"For the next seven years, things were perfect. Della and I would take walks together, ride my motorcycle on long trips and watch videos of old, silent movies.

"We had wonderful sex and, once she thought I couldn't hear, she never nagged me."

But the whole act fell apart last month when the Drimlands were at a basketball game and someone behind them shouted something at the pastor.

"Bill jumped, startled, and turned around and looked," Della says. "Much meant he could hear the guy.

"I couldn't believe it. I was shocked and confronted him with his lie and after denying it for two days he finally told me the truth. He broke down and admitted the whole thing."

Della has moved out of their home and plans to begin divorce proceedings at the end of this month.

"I wish she would reconsider," insists Bill. "I still love her and it means to me we spent seven years working out a relationship that was pretty good for both of us.

"I hate to see it all go to waste because I wasn't really deaf and dumb."

But Della ... she will never reconcile with her husband.

"There's no way I can stay with him now," she says.

"All the lies he had to tell to keep his act going have ended the trust between us forever."

Dear Dotti: I'm so sick of all this End Times talk I could scream. "The end is coming! The end is coming!" It seems like that's all I ever hear anymore. My life is hard enough without all this extra anxiety and fear over whether my children and I will survive. To tell you the truth, if the world doesn't end soon I'm going to take matters into my own hands — and shoot myself. Is it OK to get drunk at my own wedding?

Dear Dotti: I'm getting married in a few months and I'm really excited about it. My fiancé is a great guy and I'm very much in love with him. The problem is that I'm a recovering alcoholic and I'm afraid that I'll be tempted to drink at my own wedding. I've been sober for almost two years and I don't want to blow it. Do you think it would be OK for me to have a glass of champagne? — Nervous in D.C.

Dear Nervous: Absolutely not! Champagne isn't the word for it — you're quite dangerous!

Dear Wondering in North Carolina: If you can't decide whether you should leave a man who got drunk and beat you senseless seven days a week, there's absolutely nothing I can say to help you.

Dear Perplexed in New York: If you have such "delicate constitution," why do you live in a city that smells like a landfill?

If you're an on-again, off-again dieter, the 48-Hour Diet is for you — because it uses your weak willpower as an advantage that helps you melt away flab in hours.

Like most people, you probably gained at least six pounds over the winter and want to take off that extra flab for your days in the summer sun. Now, with the 48-Hour Diet, you'll be able to take it all off, dropping excess pounds like magic!

On the 48-hour miracle regimen, you'll start out with the quick Low-Cal Meal Plan, shown on the next page. Then, after 48 hours you can switch to the Take a Break Meal Plan, as long as you return to a low-cal menu two days later.

By alternating between the Low-Cal Meal Plan and the Take a Break Meal Plan you can drop up to three pounds in the first 48 hours — and keep on losing until you reach your desired weight.

You won't feel deprived and staying on your diet is no problem at all, because you know you're going to be feasting again in no time.

When you reach your desired weight, you can resume eating normally. If you put on an unwanted pound or two, go back to the miracle diet again and fat will melt away in no time.

The incredible 48-Hour Diet is based on low-calorie regimens promoted by the American Diabetes Association and other groups.

It's low in fat and nutritionally well-balanced, yet provides only about 1,000 calories a day during the diet period.

During the two-day off period, dieters can splurge on well-balanced meals that provide many more calories a day — along with a range of foods not permitted on the low-calorie menu.

And a special list of bonus foods that excludes luxuries like alcoholic beverages and ice cream makes you feel like you're feasting. After you've selected from among these favorite foods, you'll have nipped any cravings in the bud.

To begin your diet, start the Low-Cal Meal Plan on a Monday, for example.

Continue with the Low-Cal Plan on Tuesday, switch to the Take-a-Break Plan Wednesday and Thursday, go back to the Low-Cal Plan on Friday, and so forth. Follow these few rules as well:

- Always check with your doctor before going on a diet.
- Take a vitamin pill while you're dieting.
- Drink plenty of water.
- Stick to the diet plan.
- If you become ill with a cold or the flu, stop the diet until you feel better again and then continue.

Science buffs blast toy rocket into space

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand. — A group of science buffs has launched the first model rocket ever to reach outer space!

The 11-foot craft soared to an amazing 233,000 feet, the highest altitude ever achieved by an amateur rocket. That point, nearly 47 miles up, is "the edge of space," according to experts.

BEWARE: Many folks brought back to life after heart attacks are possessed!

WASHINGTON — Beware of loved ones who've been brought back to life by doctors after a heart attack — they may be possessed by demons!

A four-year study of heart-attack patients resuscitated by being "trapped" by paddles shows that in about one in five cases, the victim's spirit never returns to the person's body. Instead, a demonic entity enters the lifeless shell and reanimates it, according to the study by paranormal investigators.

Beat the bugs this summer with 6 super tips!

Do pesky insects make a beeline for your skin every summer? You can protect yourself from bug bites by following these tips from two experts:

1 Avoid eating foods with high concentrations of arrestants, such as bananas and peanuts. This natural substance seems to attract mosquitoes. So if you plan to be around bugs — at a picnic, for example — you should avoid eating bananas or peanuts before the outing.

2 Avoid perfumed soaps and shampoos. Sweet fragrances seem to attract insects. And the odor of sweat definitely lures mosquitoes, so you should keep your skin as dry and clean as possible in addition to avoiding fragrances.

3 Use a chlorine-bleach bath as a repellent. Insects do not like chlorine's smell.

So if you know you're going to spend [redacted] where there might be bugs, put a capful of bleach in your tub. You'll smell about the same as if you'd just gotten out of a chlorine-treated swimming pool, and you'll be protected for about 24 hours.

4 Buy a commercial insect repellent — some are excellent at keeping bugs away.

5 Avoid alcoholic drinks. These cause the skin's blood vessels to enlarge, bringing them closer to the surface of the skin and producing an alcoholic "flush." Insects that are attracted to blood — such as mosquitoes and horseflies — will be drawn to this flush.

6 Keep your skin covered when possible. This is one of the simplest, most useful methods of making sure bugs won't bite you.

THIEF COUGHS UP EVIDENCE

HAMBURG, Germany — Police were questioning a suspected jewel thief and getting nowhere when suddenly the suspect was overtaken with a convulsive fit – and hawked up a diamond bracelet.

"We were about to let him go," said Detective Kurt Unger.

"He took a drink of water and started choking. Next thing we knew — splat — a gold bracelet with seven diamonds mounted in it flew out of his mouth and hit the desktop."

Cops say the man, Peter Schmidt, 24, had swallowed the bracelet and the coughing caused him to vomit it up.

Where is the treasure I buried in a past life?

Dear Serena: A psychic told me that I buried over $500,000 worth of gold in a previous life but she couldn't tell me where the treasure is.

You're the best psychic there is, Serena. Can you help? — Donald in Florida

DONALD in Florida

Dear Donald: You did, in fact, bury treasure during one of your previous lives and it's not worth nearly as much as you've been led to believe. The chest full of golden goblets, assorted pearls and a handful of gemstones is worth appraised merely $138,648 now. You'll find it by following the directions that I am forwarding to your home.

Dear Serena: I've always been told that my whole family was cursed by an evil old aunt who was heavily involved in witchcraft. In fact, my family has had more bad luck than you can shake a stick at. We've been plagued by everything from car accidents to grave financial issues. Serena, can you tell me if the curse is real? And if it is, will you please tell it and give my family some peace? — Mary in New York

MARY in New York

Dear Mary: The aunt that you speak of was cursed. Actually, to be a witch but she had no powers to speak of and certainly couldn't cast a spell. Your family has been plagued with far more misfortune than you deserve. I am more than happy to cast a spell of good fortune to help turn the tide in your favor.

Dear Serena: When I get up to the morning and look in the mirror the face I see isn't me. The looks like me. And most people would say he is me. But there are subtle differences. I can spot a mile away. For one thing, the man in the mirror switches his left eye — I don't. But most telling of all, the man in the mirror keeps — and I've never limped a day in my life. Please tell me if I'm right, Serena. — Gene in Indiana

GENE in Indiana

Dear Gene: The man in your mirror is you! But that you are from a previous life. The one where you lived and died violently on the streets of gangland Chicago in the 1930s. The other guy suffered a crushed left kneecap and nerve damage in the left eye just weeks before dying in a hail of bullets fire outside a candy bar in 1931. Before the other you can find eternal peace it must right a few wrongs. Go after courage, the patience and the real you will have to do the rest.

Dear Serena: My son was born the day Frank Sinatra died. My mother was always a big Sinatra fan and she thinks the baby may be the reincarnation of him. I honor her, but my husband thinks it's the craziest thing he's ever heard. Mom has been talking so much about it that I decided to write to you for the whole truth. Is my son the reincarnation of Frank Sinatra? — Perplexed in Vermont

Dear Perplexed: No, he isn't.

WALTER in Texas

Am I going to die when I'm 35? — Walter in Texas

Dear Walter: Stop worrying — you are going to live long beyond your 35th birthday. The number five doesn't occur more in your life than it does for most other people, you just happen to notice it more because of your unique birth date. Instead of being afraid of it, use it to your advantage — play it, it and your lucky ages to the lottery next week.

Florida World News has purchased state-of-the-art computer system — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The Texas-built computer, called Bright Green, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and statistical tendencies. The numbers are good for the week the paper's on the newsstand.

The computer says all numbers selected as lottery cannot function over the past year to provide a predictive base for predicting future results. More value is given to the most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the computer picks the

LIVE IN MEXICO ON $14 A DAY

Over a million Americans live in Mexico—more than any other place in the world. Why do so many Americans live in Mexico? Here's why:

- Living costs—they are unbelievably low. Recent peso devaluations make Mexico one of the cheapest places to live in the entire world. Many Americans live comfortably on a small portion of their income.
- The climate—the comfortable zone around and most parts of Mexico are populated with beautiful, clear, warm waters, green mountains and colorful flowers.
- Life in a community of other Americans. There are better retirement homes in Mexico—only a short distance from the U.S.—where Americans live comfortable as a minimal expense.

The book Living Easy in Mexico describes spectacular retirement communities throughout Mexico. It covers lakeside villages nestled in the mountains, sleepy fishing villages alongside the ocean, and modern cities having a large community of Americans. The book describes the pros and cons of living in each area, including cost of housing, recreation, advantages, disadvantages, and which communities to avoid.

The book gives you practical facts on living in Mexico—health care, taxes, travel, customs, food and water, selecting a home, making extra money. The author spent 10 years living and traveling throughout Mexico. The book contains plenty of photographs so you can see for yourself the beauty of these retirement havens. Whatever kind of retirement living you want, Mexico has something to offer you.

Living in Mexico is cheap. For about $14 a day each, two people can live in a nice hotel, eat good food, and have a cook, housekeeper or gardener.

Get all the facts. Order Living Easy in Mexico today. You can order direct from the publisher. Send only $12.95 (plus $1 P&H) to: United Research Publishers Dept. WI-21, PMB 1, 103 North Coast Highway 101, Encinitas CA 92024. For VISA or MasterCard, send card number and expiration date. You may order the book by phone at 1-800-777-8552 (ext. 21). GIVE ME THE CASH — OR I'LL KILL MY BABY!

COPS discovered pregnant Antonia Maffatti before she was able to kill her unborn baby.

By BEATRICE DEXTER / Weekly World News

NAPLES, Italy — A pregnant bank robber persuaded tellers to hand over $341,000 in cash by jamming the barrel of a loaded gun into her swollen belly, say cops.

Antonia Maffatti, 17, pointed a gun at her abdomen and threatened to pull the trigger, according to official sources.

She escaped from the bank with a bag full of money but was apprehended by police four blocks from the scene of the robbery.

"She wasn't hard to spot because she was eight months' pregnant and on foot," said police inspector Attilio Galletti.

"Fortunately officers disarmed her before she had a chance to react — otherwise, she may have actually gone through with her threat."

Miss Maffatti told police she was desperately poor and resented the habit to pay for the birth of her baby. She said without money she would be so bad for her infant that the baby might as well be dead anyway.

. . . says pregnant bank robber!

According to authorities, the desperate action to be enacted the Federal Bank in Naples shortly before closing time and passed a note to a teller demanding cash.

"She was wild-eyed and upset," teller Donna Meregalia told the Naples News afterward. "She had her hand in her purse and while I watched, she pulled out a small pistol and pointed it at her stomach.

"The woman was very pregnant. All I could think of was that little innocent baby inside her who would die if I didn't give her the money. I gave her everything I had, right away."

Miss Maffatti, who is pregnant out of wedlock, has no job and no relatives, police said. She had been supporting herself with occasional work as a housekeeper until she became visibly pregnant.

The woman is in jail charged with armed robbery. Authorities say they are looking into the possibility of prosecuting her on an additional charge of endangering the welfare of a child.

AIDS blows hole in balloon business!

Expert sees worldwide shortage of rubber

KUALA LAMPUR, Malaysia — Toy balloons will soon be as rare as blimps, say experts, because manufacturers are using all the rubber they can get for condoms and medical and surgical gloves to fight killer AIDS!

"If you've got balloons, hold onto them — they're going to be worth a mint," industry spokesman Henry Sharif told reporters here — in the country that leads the world in rubber production.

"There's simply not enough rubber to make the condoms we need, much less balloons for kids' parties."

Shock waves from the balloon shortage are already being felt around the world.

Party shops from Paris and London to Los Angeles and New York are said to be raising the price of balloons — when they can get them at all.

"This is a side effect of AIDS that nobody ever anticipated," balloon wholesaler Jack Rosenberg told the Chicago Tribune. "Who'd have thought that condoms would cause balloons to disappear?"

"Many retailers sell off their balloon reserves. You're going to see lots of changes. What's a child's birthday party without balloons? Not much. I can assure you."

Specialists say that balloons made of mylar — a metallic material — will be unaffected by the rubber shortage.

"They'd be much too expensive," he continued. "And besides, half the fun is blowing it up. With mylar you need a machine."

Industry spokesman Sharif noted that as well as the balloon shortage, a Knock the socks off complete strangers — with these foolproof tips!

You can make a great impression on another person by "matching" a few of his gestures, facial expressions or body positions, says an expert.

"Matching is a type of body language which — if used correctly — can create a rapport between perfect strangers," declared Dianne Finkel, a body language consultant and lecturer.

And it can be used to your advantage in dating and other social situations, as interviews and on the job, she said. For example, if you're a woman and you've just been introduced to a man you'd like to know better, try the matching technique.

"If he smiles, smile back.

"If he's standing on an angle with his head cocked, then curve your body to matching angle and cock your head, too.

"If he has a relaxed posture, relax yours to match his.

"If, while talking, he shifts his weight to the opposite foot, you might want to shift your weight, too.

"Matching is very subtle, like a little dance between two people.

"What it does say is 'I like you. We are in sync and we have a lot in common.'

Similarly, in a job interview, if the interviewer is crisp and businesslike, you should be the same way if the employer seems harsh.

And if he signals he's about to end the interview by placing his hands on his desk before standing up, you should place your hands on your knees and get ready to stand up, too.

Never overuse the matching technique, or you'll "turn off" the other person and create a bad impression, Finkel warned.

You will know you are overdoing it if the person starts to fidget or look around the room while you are talking, or becomes suddenly abrupt in his responses to you.

To avoid overdoing it, follow these tips: Never copy more than two gestures of the other person. Never copy a nervous tic or a speech impediment, or a negative gesture such as a clenched fist. Pick only "friendly" gestures to mimic.

Finally, don't copy a gesture of body movement too quickly. If he leans to one side, wait a few seconds before you lean that way.

"By allowing a little time lag before you match, you let the other person feel that he's in charge."

EARTH'S ROTATION IS SLOWING DOWN

. . . and will come to a halt in 3 years, warn scientists

By MIKE FOSTER (Weekly World News)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Worried scientists say they have detected a significant slowing of our planet's rotation — and predict the Earth will stop spinning altogether in as little as three years!

The slowdown will lead to steadily longer days and nights and could cause everything from disastrous floods and earthquakes to mass starvation.

"This is by far the most serious and immediate problem now facing mankind," declared geophysicist Dr Joseph R. Kopeski, who first observed the phenomenon.

Scientists have long believed the Earth's rotation is slowing. It's estimated that three billion years ago, a day zipped by in about 12 hours, while now one full rotation of the Earth on its axis takes 24 hours, 56 minutes and 4.091 seconds.

Dr. Kopeski

Old theories held that the effect was gradual, with the length of an Earth day increasing just 002 seconds per century.

But new sophisticated measurements show that changes in the Earth's rotation have become more dramatic than hours," revealed Dr Kopeski.

And according to his chilling calculations the Earth's rotation will wind down to a dead stop by January 15 of the year 2003.

Incredibly, this will result in permanent day on one side of the globe and permanent night on the other.

"Those individuals unlucky enough to end up on the dark side of the Earth will find themselves in a grim, cold world of eternal blackness," chorus — will die within a few short weeks leading to a halt in farming and the worst famines the human race has ever experienced."

But life will be no picnic for survivors on the bright side of the globe the noted scientist added.

"Imagine a spinning top slowly running out of momentum — before it stops it begins to wobble.

"The same thing will happen to our planet, causing the continental plates to shock about wildly.

What's more, year-round daylight will throw the life-cycles of insects and birds out of whack.

"The effect will snowball, disrupting the entire ecosystem," said the professor.

"This could lead to mass extinctions all the way up the food chain."

Several other scientists have ventured against panic, calling for calm until the phenomenon can be "studied thoroughly."

But Dr Kopeski warned "Governments around the

Mr. [illegible] kept this town [illegible] 1906!

WORLD'S OLDEST HANDYMAN STILL MAKES THINGS PURR — AT 107!

By KEVIN CRIEG / Weekly World News

MAGNOLIA, Ark. — Never-say-die Delbert Cardenell, the world's oldest handyman, is still on the job — at the astonishing age of 107!

The spry, hardworking great-great-great-grandfather has been repairing appliances, mowing lawns, fixing cars and mending roofs and windows since 1908, when he was an earnest, 13-year-old kid helping his father tend to the needs of his small rural community.

"I've worked all my life," Delbert says proudly. "If I sit for too long, I get lazy.

"Back in the early days, I'd do harnesses and mend wagons.

"Then, when folks started getting Model Ts and Stanley Steamers, I fixed them.

"And there ain't an electronic gadget around I can't fix up as good as new — an old RCA radio, a blender, a blanket, a microwave oven, anything.

"I work eight hours a day, six days a week, and I'll go on working until the day the Good Lord takes me home."

Delbert is nothing less than an institution to the people of this town.

"My relatives tell me my great-great-great-grandmother used to rely on Del to keep her wheelchair in workable condition," says Alice Rachie, who brought her electric fan to Del's shop on the day Weekly World News visited.

"I remember my parents giving him odd jobs around our house when I was a little girl.

"He's like a tradition with us. There's even an expression we use when a situation is fully beyond repair: 'It's time to take that marriage — or unruly child, or drinking problem — to Del to get it fixed.' It's our way of saying he can work miracles.

"There are people in this town who have been watching the calendar. It's fun to go years thanks to Del."

Delbert admits he's slowed down a little over the years.

"I used to go out with my push mower and do lawns all day in the dead of summer," he says.

"I've got to say I don't do as much of that anymore.

"But I'm still as sharp as a tack, and I'm learning new things every day."

Despite Delbert's considerable skills, one recent summer day, Del walked three hilly miles to a customer's house — and installed her new home computer and her refrigerator.

Forget guardian angels! Everybody has a space alien twin — who watches over us day and night!

By GRANT BALFOUR Weekly World News

SYDNEY, Australia — You are not alone, top UFO researchers reveal — because every one of us has a "twin" from outer space who watches over us day and night!

"For every human being on Earth, there appears to be an alien counterpart who takes note of their every action, who studies the entire thought and who hasn't a remarkable resemblance to them physically," says respected researcher Dr. Thomas Coates.

"This relationship appears to be the true cause of thousands of so-called abduction experiences — and perhaps every story we've ever heard about guardian angels."

EXPERT: Dr. Thomas Coates.

After analyzing thousands of alien contact reports and interviewing hundreds of contactees around the world, Dr. Coates and his colleagues have discovered a specific pattern — with rare exceptions between the human subjects and their alien visitors.

In many cases, the alien twins seem to take a personal interest in specific people, subtly making their presence known and protecting the individual just like a guardian angel.

A 6-foot-4 lumberjack from Saskatchewan, Canada, was driving home on a lonely logging road when his truck blew a tire and ripped down a hillside into a tree. Dazed and bleeding, the man — who was born with part of his left index finger missing — struggled to free himself but couldn't open the door.

Suddenly, he found himself bathed in light. The door swung open and he found himself surrounded by tall humanoids with large eyes. They carried him to a room filled with strange equipment, where one specific creature approached the wounded man.

"The logger recalled the shock when he looked at the creature because it was like looking at himself in a mirror," Dr. Coates said. "Unlike the others, this one had eyes and a face exactly like his — and was missing part of its left index finger."

The next morning, the stunned lumberjack woke up by the side of the road with his injuries mysteriously healed.

"We have heard similar stories from people who have come face-to-face with their extraterrestrial twin more times than you can possibly imagine — enough times to convince us that each of us has a twin from space watching over us," Dr. Coates said. "There's no doubt in our minds, in fact, that these aliens are the so-called guardian angels that we've all left caring for us from time to time.

SCIENTISTS believe it's aliens, not angels, that protect us.

MYSTERY OF THE

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Scientists admit they're baffled by a gravestone that glows mysteriously at exactly the same time every night!

"There are no lights near the cemetery that could cause a reflection on the stone — nor is there any kind of phosphorescent moss present that might account for the strange glow," said paranormal researcher George Northingham.

"We believe the most likely source is some form of psychic energy."

Residents have been talking about the headstone, which sits in a local church cemetery for decades, and those brave enough to visit the old graveyard at 11:36 at night are treated to an uncanny sight: The worn stone takes on an eerie greenish glow.

"It's really refreshing to watch," said Northingham, who used time-lapse photography to capture the phenomenon on film. "I could feel the hairs on the back of my neck stand on end."

When a spiritualist took over the church in March, he asked Northingham and his colleague Mark Bowers to probe the matter.

First, the researchers looked into the history of the grave site.

"The stone marks the grave of a family of Italian immigrants named Flora, two brothers and nine sisters, who passed away in the 1800s," said Northingham.

"It was erected after the last of the family members, Josephine Flora, died at ... 89 at age 81. All of them died young."

Using sophisticated equipment, the experts took an array of scientific readings.

"We found no obvious signs of ectoplasm — spirit matter — but we did detect low levels of radioactivity found nowhere else in the area," reveals Northingham.

They also set up a movie camera and stayed at rundown and waited for an opportunity to prove the phenomenon was indeed real.

"At 11:33 on the dot, the headstone began to take on a gleam, which became steadily brighter until a 'halo' extended about two inches from the stone," revealed Northingham.

"It lasted for only about four minutes before fading away." At the same time the glow appeared, the radioactivity readings peaked, he added.

The researcher says the Puerta claimants indicate the cause of their deaths was 'unknown' — and local legends say that eldest sister Josefina also promised that other members of the clique will be claimed by radioactive decay.

Widow weds nine men — who were all later executed for murder!

ASUNCION, Paraguay — Perpetual widow Maria Cortez is the only woman in history to marry nine men — all of whom were executed for murder!

Her first husband, gangster Juan Moras, was sentenced to death for killing two rival mobsters. Her second, Jose Sanchez, was executed for shooting one of Maria's lovers.

After Sanchez' death, Maria began working with the Paraguayan penal system. She met and married her other seven husbands while they were already on Paraguay's death row. She watched all seven executed.

Her most recent spouse was child-killer Miguel Cortez, who died last week.

Selling worms will make you live longer!

MODESTO, Ala. — A surprising new study reveals that people who raise and sell fishing worms live an astounding 8.2 years longer than the general population.

Scientists aren't sure why, but some experts speculate that the dramatic difference in longevity may be due to the fact that worm farming is a very low stress occupation.

PREGNANT GAL'S BABY IS AN OCTOPUS!

NICOSIA, Cyprus — A 18-year-old college girl whose body swelled up after spending Spring Break partying on the beach thought she was pregnant. But when a doctor X-rayed the case, they found that she was carrying a squirming, eight-legged octopus in her stomach!

The unidentified woman probably swallowed an octopus egg, which are microscopic, while swimming in the warm Mediterranean sea. The creature was removed safely from the student's body and released at sea.

X-ray eyes cause cancer

PARIS — A crime gangster who tells himself as the man with the X-ray eyes has been sued by 60 people who claim that they got cancer after he stared through their clothing, Marcel Lecierc, 68, was hit by the lawsuit after a number of audience members who volunteered to come on stage during his act were diagnosed with tumors, wire service reports say.

In his show, Lecierc uses people to correctly identifying the contents of their pockets, the color of their underwear and personal preferences, such as personalities.

BAD-ASS BRITS

Do you think those savage Indians in the Old West were mean? They were mild-mannered pussycats compared to the British. Back before America became America when we were still English colonists — Ottawa Chief Pontiac and his braves destroyed an army fort.

The teddy-bear Brits responded not by attacking with guns but by infecting the entire tribe with smallpox. They did it by giving the Indians pox-contaminated blankets.

WACKY BIRD EATS FLEAS — RIGHT OFF CAT'S BACK!

PEST CONTROL: Milano the bird picks the fleas off his cat pal, Jericho.

By DANA BENNETT Weekly World News

BALTIMORE, Md. — Mike Culip never has to worry about fleas infesting his bachelor pad, because his amazing lovebird Milano eats the nasty little bloodsuckers — right off his cat's fur!

"Milano and my cat Jericho are best friends," says Mike, 28.

"Actually, they're more like lovers," he laughs, "the way they're always snuggling up against each other."

Mike says his female bird and his gentle kitten became lovebirds the moment Milano moved in with them six months ago.

"I've had Jericho since he was a kitten and I knew he wouldn't hurt a fly," he says. "Still, I was a little apprehensive about bringing a bird into the household because I was afraid he might go after the little guy out of jealousy or something.

"But I set Jericho down and introduced him to Milano, and just like that, they started cuddling up a storm. Like they'd known each other all their lives.

"Then Milano went over and started eating the dry food out of Jericho's dish. Jericho stood there and waited patiently for the bird to finish — and then he went over and had a bite to eat himself.

"I thought, 'Hey, that's above and beyond the call of duty.'"

And when Mike came home from his job as an insurance adjuster the next day, he found Milano perched happily on Jericho's back — eating the fleas out of the contented feline's fur.

"And she's been eating them from over there," says the amazed animal lover. "I don't know whether Milano likes the way they taste or whether she's just doing it to help out her friend. But either way, any flea that attacks Jericho is dead meat."

Mike's veterinarian is astonished by the bond between the two mismatched creatures — and he says the lovebird is the best flea repellent he's come across in 22 years of practice.

"The cat's clean as can be," he says.

"He has a beautiful coat and he's happy as a lark — because the moment a flea lands on him, Milano is there to snatch it off.

"It's really a great situation for everybody. The cat never itches at all, and Mike doesn't have to spend a cent for flea collars or pills."

Bad news, gals:

THE U.S. MALE DOESN'T DELIVER!

By ANN VICTORIA
Weekly World News

Hey gals, think American guys are a bunch of lust-crazed animals obsessed with sex, sex, sex? Think again. A brand-new survey reveals that the average man in this country is a dud who makes love a measly 79 times a year — and that adds up to just one and a half times a week!

The survey, in Men's Health magazine, found that adult males in this country may talk like macho studs who'd rather get it on than do just about anything. But when it comes right down to it, they're more likely to have a roll around the midsection than a roll in the hay.

Their lack of passion is really apparent when you compare our U. S. males with French or Italian men. These Europeans enjoy a healthy bedroom romp an average of three times a week — twice as often as our guys do.

When it comes to sex, American guys are DUDS — not studs — survey shows!

But while American men don't seem to have sex with a partner all that much, they do enjoy going solo. In fact, Americans masturbate once a week, almost as often as they have intercourse. Contrast this with Asian men who masturbate only twice a month.

Here are some other interesting tidbits the survey turned up:

● Even when they do have sex, American guys are sprinters, not distance men. The average love-making session — start to finish, HIS finish, of course! — lasts about 11 minutes.

● Married men in this country tend to cheat on their wives. The odds are about one in four that your hubby is having an affair, whereas the chances are only one in eight that you are.

● The average American man has 12.1 sex partners over the course of his life. His female counterpart has just four.

Girl, 6, saves mom from rapist — by bashing him with her doll

By SCOTTY PAUL
Weekly World News

MIAMI — A gutsy 6-year-old girl saved her frightened mom from the clutches of a would-be rapist — by bashing him over the head with her doll.

"The bad man was making my mommy cry, so I grabbed my doll and beat him in the face with it.

"I hit him over and over again until he stopped hurting her," said the pint-size heroine.

Apparently, the old, hard plastic doll broke the punk's nose because he ran out the front door, leaving a trail of blood from the bedroom, police said.

The little girl and her mother, were not identified by police. They were asleep in their first-floor apartment when the sleazebag broke a window and climbed into the bedroom.

"I heard Mommy say, 'Don't, please don't.' He was slapping her in the face and telling her to 'Shut up.'" the child said.

"I got out of my bed and grabbed my doll by the legs.

"I swung her as hard as I could and hit him right in the face.

"He fell and I hit him a bunch more times in the nose and eyes," said the little girl.

Police scoured the neighborhood but didn't find the would-be rapist.

"I'm sure he would have accomplished what he wanted to do if it hadn't been for that brave little girl and her doll," a detective said.

The tenacious girl's grateful mom couldn't stop hugging her little darling. "She's my little hero. If it hadn't been for her, God

GIANT HOROSCOPE

By SERENA SARAK
PSYCHIC ASTROLOGER TO THE RICH AND FAMOUS

For the week of July 10

ARIES

Mar 21 – Apr 19

Some associates or co-workers might make life difficult this week. But it pays to keep a lid on your temper.

A mix-up over some legal documents could lead to romance for relationship-minded singles. Married should steer clear of disputes.

Finances could get a great boost when a hobby unexpectedly turns into a lucrative source of income.

TAURUS

Apr 20 – May 20

Your worries over money this week are completely needless. So relax. Turn your thoughts to what you can do for others and that little financial situation will clear up by Thursday — all by itself.

An invitation to a social gathering could come from someone you always thought didn't like you. Accept it. You may come to see that your perceptions of this person has been way off base.

GEMINI

May 21 – June 20

Expectations of yourself could tend to weigh you down this week. Stop trying to do everything! It's time to start taking your friends up on their offers of help.

A sick loved one's health takes an unexpected turn for the better on Wednesday.

Green is a lucky color for you all week long. Lucky numbers are 11, 14 and 38.

CANCER

June 21 – July 22

Good financial advice may come from an unlikely source this week.

On Tuesday and Wednesday be careful not to listen to negative friends or relatives. Trust your dreams.

Your priorities could tend to get a little out of whack on Thursday.

Be careful not to neglect your hobby by paying too much attention to business.

LEO

July 23 – Aug 22

Your dazzling smile works magic this week.

Singles find their cheerful, optimistic attitude attracting all the romance they can handle. Committed Leos find their happiness affecting their partners in wonderful and unexpected ways.

Your enthusiasm also draws a surprising financial windfall to you. Keep your money side up!

VIRGO

Aug 23 – Sept 22

Discretion is the byword this week. People will be testing your patience left and right. But keeping an energetic attitude will pay big dividends.

An associate may approach you with a deal that seems too good to be true — it is. Steer clear of risky investments of any kind, at least until well after the weekend.

Lucky numbers are 13, 19 and 24.

LIBRA

Sept. 23 — Oct. 22

Your sense of loyalty could be put to the test this week.

A friend will be counting on you to do the right thing. The pressure will be on. Stand by him or her regardless of appearances.

Employed Libras will find the boss to be a little distant this week. But don't take it personally. Things will turn around before the weekend.

SCORPIO

Oct 23 – Nov 21

This could be the luckiest week of the year for you! Almost anything you touch this week turns to gold.

A business deal you forgot all about could come through on Wednesday. And on Thursday you may get good news concerning another financial matter.

Singles find themselves pursued by a variety of attractive members of the opposite sex.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov 22 – Dec 21

Think before speaking this week or you could wind up hurting someone close to you. The planetary alignment tends to make you too impulsive for your own good.

On the other hand, your intuition is excellent with regard to your social life. You may be asked to several functions. Trust your instincts to know which ones to attend.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22 — Jan 19

That winning generosity of yours could get you in trouble this week. Remember everyone isn't as honest as you are. Don't get taken in by a stranger's sob story unless you know for a fact he's telling you the truth.

Days are hectic this week but the evenings offer lots of opportunities for pleasant relaxation — take advantage of them.

AQUARIUS

Jan 20 – Feb 18

The health of a loved one may be of concern to you this week. But your fears will turn out to be unwarranted. Things are going to work out fine.

Singles may find that special someone at a cultural event or art museum.

On Thursday, look for a positive change in your home situation — a possible move or an improvement to your current home.

PISCES

Feb 19 – Mar 20

This is a good week for slowing down and taking stock of your finances.

Insights gained by taking time to evaluate your money situation will pay big dividends later in the year.

On Friday, a friend or co-worker may tell you a secret that could wind up changing your life for the better.

On Saturday, a package for you may arrive in the mail.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Lots of changes are on tap this year — and nearly all of them will be for the better.

An unselfish thing you never dreamed you'd ever do will . . .
